

Bruce Zietsdorf, author of
GREEN CARD SOLDIER

Recommended Reading List

30 Books Everyone Should Read Before They're 30

<http://www.goodreads.com/story/show/52717-30-books-everyone-should-read-before-they-re-30>

The books listed are of unparalleled prose and packed with wisdom capable of igniting a new understanding of the world.

Balkanology – Exploring Southeast Europe

<http://www.balkanology.com/overview/books2.html>

The website page covers all types of writing except for travel guidebooks, which are listed separately.

Popular Balkan Books

<http://www.goodreads.com/shelf/show/balkans>

Recommendations from the GoodReads website.

5 Best Books on New York City History

<http://litlists.blogspot.com/2009/10/five-best-books-on-new-york-city.html>

As posted on Lit Lists.

Books Recommended for Religious & Non-Religious Humanists

<http://www.croftpress.com/david/religion/religioushumanist/>

Part of the religious humanist reading list as published by Croft Press.

Religion Reading List

<http://www.dogchurch.org/narthex/rrl.html>

Recommendations for reading from a variety of religious traditions to shake loose prejudices, while gaining a deeper understanding of one's faith.

U.S. Army Chief of Staff

<http://www.history.army.mil/catalog/pubs/105/105-5.html>

The U.S. Army Chief of Staff's list of suggested readings on military-related subjects, selected to stimulate independent study by soldiers at all levels, from cadet and enlisted, officer to general officer, and to help them prepare for the next higher level of responsibility.

Army Center for Military History

<http://www.history.army.mil/reading.html>

The Center's list is divided into four sub-lists, each targeted to a particular level of experience and responsibility, from private to lieutenant to general.

Chairman, Joint Chiefs of Staff

<http://www.au.af.mil/au/awc/awcgate/jcs/reading-list.htm>

According to the chairman, as leaders of the Armed Forces of the United States progress in their development, they should expand their horizons to encompass familiarity with other Services and develop an informed perspective on joint warfare.